

Adult: Good morning Lincoln! This public service announcement is brought to you by the National Outdoor Recreation Association which encourages you to get up and move your body every day!

Riley: I can't wait for the spring carnival {track & field day}!

Nate: Me too! We'll just get to run around everywhere right?

Riley: Well, not exactly. It's pretty organized so everyone can have fun and make the most of the day.

Nate: What?! I hate organized.

Riley: Hey, it's fine. There will be all different kinds of things to do and there's plenty of time so you'll get to try everything if you want.

Nate: Yeah, but, organized means waiting in line to do the really fun stuff. I hate waiting in line.

Riley: Yeah, there are some lines and sometimes it's hard to wait because you know it's going to be fun, but waiting patiently keeps everyone safe and helps so everyone gets a turn.

Nate: You mean to tell me that Line Basics and the 3Rs still matter even on fun days outside?

Riley: They do! Just because it's a special day doesn't mean we can throw them out. That's what helps make the day fun and safe for everyone.

Nate: Even the teachers?!

Riley: Yes, even the teachers like to have fun sometimes.

{Nate: But all those rules don't really matter if we're at a different school, right?

Riley: Wrong! We're representing our school when we're at a different school. People will remember how we behaved – good or bad – and remember that we are Lincoln School. Don't you want to make Lincoln look good?

Nate: Well, I suppose.

Riley: Sure and remembering the 3Rs and Line Basics even on outside fun days will make you and Lincoln look good.}

Nate: Hey, do you think we should bring Mr. Wolf some sunscreen this year?

Riley: Great idea! Anyone else that might need some?
